G8RY._ Here is an example of the way you will have to make your Ansible inventory file: [tcp-Inventory] ws2k-1 ansible_user=fwadmin password=password And here is an example of the way you would use it to connect to a specific machine: tcp: test.example.com: ip: 172.16.1.51 user: "fwadmin" password: password Make sure you put the server and user within the same group. The final thing I would recommend, and this is just my preference, is that you change the users name in your inventory file to fwadmin. This allows you to change the user in the way you described and still make this look like a single server. I also put the password in the inventory file, so that you only have to put it in one place instead of in several. If you do this you can use the following syntax to get all the machines you want to include in the inventory file: $ansible-playbook -i tcp/test.example.com, playbook.yml --extra-vars "ansible_user=fwadmin password=password" Women Not all women are career-oriented. Some are more comfortable in the home, many are caregivers and some prefer being free from the constraints of the workplace. The careers and tasks available to women have evolved a great deal over the centuries and society as a whole. The USA is famous for having a lot of women in business, particularly in positions of leadership, for example executives and entrepreneurs. But the USA is not the only country with many women in business. The UK and some of the countries in Europe have a high proportion of women in business. Japan, China, India and South Korea are countries with the most women in business. The figure below shows the proportion of women in business in the world in each country. (Source: Statista / Statista / Robeco N.V.) Women also occupy senior management positions in business in all the continents except North America. * The number of women is the number of women in employment in a country's total labour force in a particular year. The number of men is the number of men in employment in a country's total labour force in a particular year. 82157476af
